

Exploring Feelings: Unkind

A group of children are playing in the playground when another child asks to join in. They don't want anybody new to join their group, so they say no. Later the child is seen sitting on the wall by themselves.

1. How do you think the child felt before asking to join in? How did they feel after being refused?

2. How do you think the children in the group felt? Would they all have felt the same?

3. How do you think you would have felt if you had been in that group?
